ICC mobile app

The launch of ICC's mobile app has provided an opportunity to stay connected.

Thousands of individuals with Androids and iPhones have already downloaded the app.

It provides phone numbers, email addresses and office locations as well as allows students, faculty and staff to have mobile ID at their fingertips. It is also a source of news, deadlines, events, a directional GPS and healthy food choices.

The app will be updated biannually.

Magnolia Gold starts this fall

A partnership with the Mississippi Army National Guard will enable ICC to offer military science courses beginning this fall.

Students can either take the classes as electives or enlist in the Mississippi Army National Guard, which offers multiple benefits. - Read more about it on page four.

Orientation provides easy transition for students

Registration is continuing for July freshman orientation sessions at both the Fulton and Tupelo campuses of ICC.

Both morning (8-11:45 a.m.) and afternoon (1-4:45 p.m.) sessions are scheduled for July 13 and 14 at the David C. Cole Student Services Building at the Fulton Campus and July 16 and 17 at the Health Science Education Center at the Tupelo Campus. Students may check in from 8-8:45 a.m. for the morning session and from 1-1:45 p.m. for the afternoon session.

Freshman orientation at ICC is designed to engage students in the process, according to Larry Boggs, director of Student Recruitment and Orientation.

The schedule includes small group sessions. ID and yearbook photos will also be made.

A special orientation session will cover topics of special interest to parents.

Students are reminded that they must have submitted an application for admission before registering for orientation, Boggs said. In addition, they should register for the orientation session at the campus where they plan to attend.

To register, students should access ICC's website at www.iccms.edu or for more information, call (662) 862-8252 or email laboggs@iccms.edu.

‘Bucket list’ reality

Recently my grandparents returned from a month-long vacation where they toured the Mid-west, so to speak.

They traveled through 13 states covering 5,050 miles and visited places like Cheyenne, Wyo.; Yellowstone Park; the Grand Tetons; Mount Rushmore and the Dakota Badlands, just to name a few.

Having just recently retired, they decided to take advantage of the “fruits of their labor” and begin scratching items off their bucket list. Never being one who is jealous of what other people have, I was nevertheless envious of their retirement vacation. Pondering this as I was driving to my second job, I began thinking about my own bucket list and future retirement.

For myself and my generation, plans concerning retirement are just not a topic of general conversation. It is a little bit like putting the cart before the horse in our minds. However, repeated studies over the last five or six years have clarified a frightening future if that reality does not change...a future where retirement may not be possible! And why would we not be able to retire, one asks? One simple reason...traditional age college students today, as a whole, lack the financial management, savings and investing skills necessary to make retirement a reality.

However, ICC students who participate in the PACE classes required for graduating high school seniors who enter each fall gain an edge with financial planning (See page four.).

Fastweb and FinAid recently reported that student loan debt exceeds $1.1 trillion. The average college student has at least two credit cards with an average of $4,100 in debt owed on those cards. The Financial Educators Council reports that only 34 percent of parents have taught their children how to balance a checkbook and that 85 percent of college graduates plan to move back home after graduation in order to combat financial hardships incurred while in college.

Since the statistics considered the entire college population rather than segmenting two- and four-year students, I would venture to say that those in community college incur less debt for their two years because tuition and expenses are cheaper. And, we who attend community college, obtain an exceptional educational foundation, which yields a higher return on our investment.

Judith Viorst states in her book, Necessary Loses, that “the burden and the gift of adulthood” is being responsible, and being responsible means making and keeping commitments.”

One of those responsible commitments needs to be learning what it takes to save and invest for retirement at our age now instead of waiting 10, 20 or even 30 years down the road.

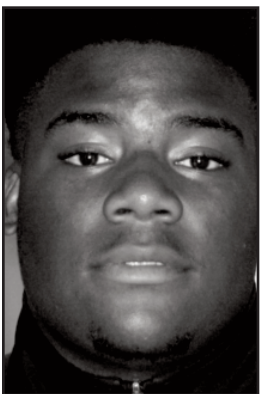

By waiting, we are ensuring that the dream of retirement, the dream of fulfilling our bucket list, is just that, a dream, one which is destined never to come to fruition.

Not only does ICC help us in preparing for the future, including retirement, but it enables us to take advantage of an exceptional return on investment.

As college students, we must do all that we can to ensure that our future is secure, and ICC can equip us to make that happen.

Voices of Phi Theta Kappa

Excerpts from ‘My year as president...’

My year as Phi Theta Kappa president has been such an amazing experience...I knew that I wanted to join PTK for the networking opportunities. I had heard about how many chances you get when you join PTK to meet new people and make new connections. However, I was not prepared for what happened to me. I made new friends. I’m not bad at making friends, but I’m such an introvert that I sometimes have a hard time keeping them because I don’t stay in touch. However, while in PTK, I have made several lifelong friends that I will cherish forever. I want to cry when I think about not seeing all my friends every Monday. I’m going to miss having Joseph give me advice. I’m going to miss Alaina’s sweet and caring disposition and her determination to always do the right thing. I’m going to miss Taye and Taliyah making me laugh. I’m going to miss Meredith, Melanie, Brittany, Karleigh and everyone else in Honors Forum. I’m also going to miss the advisors. I’ve never met any other teachers like them, teachers who are so dedicated to students and student success that they go out of their way to help students in any way they can. Being away from my new family is going to be extremely hard. To sum it up, Phi Theta Kappa has been one indescribable experience. I’ve learned new leadership skills, worked on some amazing projects and met some incredible people whom I would have never met had I not run for Phi Theta Kappa president... - Mary Chandler Izard of Fulton was co-president of the Upsilon Sigma Chapter. She has recently been awarded the prestigious Lyceum Scholarship at the University of Mississippi.

Mary Chandler Izard

My time as president of Phi Theta Kappa’s Upsilon Sigma chapter has been laced with nothing but wonderful activities. During my time as president, I feel that I have learned so much more about working with other people, being a leader and devoting myself completely to something. This honor society has had such a tremendous effect on my life. It has broadened my horizons and forced me to look upon myself in a way that I never had before. It highlighted my capabilities and strengthened me as a person...I have made so many new friends who share the same goals and values that I do. They have inspired me to work harder than I ever thought I was able and cheered me on when there was really nothing about which to cheer. Before making friends through PTK, I had never had friends who seemed to be genuinely happy about my accomplishments. The people that I have met through Phi Theta Kappa do not allow me to stop. They expect more from me every day. Those are the kind of people that I have always wanted around me. Without my time as president, I would not have those people in my life. Beyond the remarkable friendships and personal growth, PTK has opened doors that I never thought existed...I owe a good deal of my success as a person to my involvement in Phi Theta Kappa. It absolutely kills me to say goodbye to ICC and my time as president of the Upsilon Sigma chapter. - Karleigh Kimbrell of Pontotoc was co-president of the Upsilon Sigma Chapter. She is the recipient of a prestigious $70,000 Presidential Scholarship to Mississippi State University.

STAFF REPORTS

Tupelo Campus facelift
part of ICC five-year plan

Itawamba Community College has embarked on a five-year plan that will include significant building projects on both the Fulton and Tupelo campuses.

On the Tupelo Campus within the next 18 months, the Technical Education building will be renovated, and a new Physical Plant will be constructed east of the Lee County Schools office on College View Drive. The Technical Education building will not be utilized this year, but will house labs when the renovation is complete.

According to vice president of Development and Planning Wayne Sullivan, the next phase will include demolition of a faculty house as well as structures that have housed welding, heating and air conditioning and the physical plant. Within 24 months after the demolition, a general academic building will be constructed on the site. Sullivan said the entire project should take a total of 45 months if everything progresses on schedule.

Located on the site of the current Administration building facing Eason Boulevard, the two-story general academic building will include a commons area, food service, classrooms and administrative offices.

Members of ICC’s Board of Trustees had an opportunity to “walk through” the Tupelo Campus prior to approval of the plan at its Feb. meeting, according to President Mike Eaton. “The trustees could see the need for relocation of the Physical Plant and demolition of the buildings, which were built in the mid-1960s. Our desire is to make the Tupelo Campus a better place for faculty, staff and students and to give the campus a much-needed facelift.”

On the Fulton Campus, phase I of a FEMA grant has been approved for the design and development of services of architects and engineers through bid documents for the construction of a 21,000-square-foot band hall with a safe room. The facility will be located between Main and Roper streets.

Sullivan said that 18 months will be allowed for construction, and the facility should be open for the 2017 fall semester.

“We have labeled this as a five-year plan; however, in reality, the components could be completed in three-and-a-half years,” Eaton said.

Family: Wife, Chanda; three children, ages 6, 4, 2

Education: A.A.S., Mississippi Delta; B.S., M.S., Ph.D., Mississippi State University

Experience: Includes MTD, MSU Research and Curriculum Unit; began at ICC in 2012

Positives of Teaching: “It is very gratifying to be a part of the learning process and to see how the process shapes the individual over time...”

Negatives of Teaching: “What is the most disheartening about education is to have a student who fails or quits school because he/she is having trouble learning the course materials...ICC has many available resources.”

Advice to Students: “Don’t overload yourself by taking too many classes. Pace yourself and develop good study habits....Never quit. It took me four years to earn my A.A.S., five years to complete my B.S. and 10 years to complete the master’s degree and Ph.D.”

ADULT LEARNERS take advantage of a study area in the Learning Resource Center at the Fulton Campus.

Shuttle service available

Itawamba Community College will continue the free shuttle service between the Fulton and Tupelo campuses this fall.

Shuttle service begins and ends at the Fulton Campus with stops in front of the Student Services Buildings at both campuses and the Health Science Education Center at the Tupelo Campus.

The shuttle provides a vital service and transports approximately 20-25 students daily between campuses.

Students must present a valid student ID card in order to ride the shuttle.

Financial aid still available for fall

Now is the time to finalize financial aid applications for the fall semester if students have not done so.

Although ICC has no financial aid deadline, students are encouraged to apply early. Students have to reapply for Federal financial aid (complete the FAFSA) each year, according to Student Aid director Terry Bland.

Applications may be submitted via the Web at www.fafsa.gov. Be sure to include the ICC Federal school code of 002409 on the application. ICC Student Aid will receive the application electronically and contact the student if more information is needed.

“If the student has submitted the FAFSA, the application still may be incomplete,” Bland said. “If that is the case, ICC will send students a letter or email requesting the additional information. Also, missing information may be checked on ICC’s website, www.iccms.edu, so that students can see what information is needed, and in most cases, print the form directly and fax to (662) 862-8225 or mail to 602 West Hill Street, Fulton, MS 38843.

Student loan applications for first-time borrowers can also be printed from ICC’s website. The forms must be completed and submitted to the Student Aid office. In addition, the FAFSA must be completed before students can be considered for the student loan. Students may also check the application status of their MTAG and other state financial aid awards online at www.mississippi.edu.

The deadline for submission of the county tuition guarantee applications is Sept. 15. It is available for eligible students for up to four consecutive semesters at ICC, and applicants can pursue any degree or certificate program at the College.

GED recipients from Chickasaw, Itawamba, Monroe and Pontotoc counties are also eligible.

Amounts vary by county, and some counties may offer an additional book stipend. ICC’s Student Aid office can provide specific amounts.

For more information, call (662) 862-8220 or (662) 620-5319. Office hours are 8 a.m.-4:30 p.m. weekdays.

Dual credit offers CTE options

ICC offered its first dual credit career and technical course, robotics, during the spring semester.

According to Denise Gillespie, ICC eLearning instructional coordinator, robotics blends online instruction with face-to-face labs and plant tour experiences.

During the class taught by Clay McNutt, participants toured MTD Products, worldwide leader of outdoor power equipment.

The course includes basic programming, industrial applications, electromechanical systems, fluid power systems, sensors, digital electronics and interfacing and maintaining robotic systems.

Gillespie said that the fundamentals of construction and manufacturing will be added this fall.

It will include introductory construction math, hand and power tools, construction drawings, advanced manufacturing concepts, employability skills, communications and basic safety, Gillespie said.

Requirements for enrollment in both courses as well as all dual credit classes include a 16 composite score on the ACT, 12 or more Carnegie units, 2.5 or greater GPA and an application, recommendation letter and transcript.

The spring semester enrollment included 559 dual credit students from 19 high schools in ICC’s district are enrolled for the 2015 spring semester.

Enrollment continues to climb since the program began with 180 students in the 2013 fall semester.

Classes offered include English composition, college algebra, Spanish, American literature, British literature, American history, psychology, government, anatomy and physiology, music appreciation and personal and community health.

Gillespie noted that the class delivery methods include online or either on-site or at a designated location within the district.

In order for a class to be taught online by a full-time ICC instructor, a minimum of 20 students must enroll. Traditional courses, Gillespie said, are PARTICIPANTS IN ICC’S ROBOTICS class, which was offered during the spring semester for the first-time ever for dual credit, work in the Belden lab.

Attention, adults!

Scholarships available for new students or those not enrolled in past two years

Adult learners who will attend classes at ICC during the 2015 fall semester and who have not been enrolled in college for the previous two years have an opportunity to apply for the Adult Learner Incentive scholarship.

It is designed to provide an incentive for new or returning students, age 23 or older, not enrolled in college for the previous two years, to enroll in classes and pursue a degree, according to Dr. Buddy Collins, vice president of Student Services.

“The Adult Learner Incentive scholarship will provide needed financial assistance to encourage adult learners to enter or re-enter,” Collins said. “We are aware that many adult learners face financial challenges, and we hope that this scholarship will be the catalyst for them to enroll or return to ICC. A college degree will enable them to be more competitive in today’s global economy.”

The scholarship provides half-tuition for one semester. Criteria for selection include Mississippi resident, enrollment in a minimum of six semester hours, meeting admission requirements and in good standing with ICC. The application deadline is Aug. 17.

A limited number of scholarships will be awarded by the date of application, Collins said. The scholarship cannot be combined with other ICC institutional scholarships.

To apply, those interested may complete the application, which is available in the Student Affairs offices on both the Fulton and Tupelo campuses; on ICC’s website, www.iccms.edu; or by calling (662) 862-8067. Applicants must also complete the Federal Application for Student Aid (FAFSA) before the scholarship deadline.

For more information, contact Diann Nichols at dmnichols@iccms.edu or (662) 862-8067.

‘Evening of Celebration’ recognizes ICC’s top scholars

In his introduction of the speaker for ICC’s honors ceremony, President Mike Eaton called him “an angel among us.”

He was referring to the contributions Lou Remmers, retired physical therapist from Tupelo, has made to ICC since 1985.

Although he had no connection to ICC, Remmers donated his time as a trainer and equipment to the football team at a time when the Indians didn’t have a lot of resources.

“He led the juco life back then,” Eaton said of Remmers. “He never received one dime, only cold chicken on the way back (from away games).”

Remmers congratulated the honorees on their achievement, but he encouraged them to view life as having a basket.

“The good Lord puts a whole bunch of things in your basket,” Remmers said, “including natural talents, but there are also a few things that are challenging.”

Remmers said that his challenges began when he started grade school.

He had dyslexia. “I couldn’t be a mathematician,” he explained, “since letters and numbers were issues. I found myself reading words, but I only remembered the last three words. The thing that was most challenging was the number thing.”

Remmers called his challenges “devastating, because my father was an aerospace engineer. I always wanted to be like my dad, but they use a lot of math.”

He said he constructed bridges, but all of his structures were upside down.

“I became a really good daydreamer in grade school,” Remmers noted. “In that process I became analytical. I figured out how things worked. As time went by I realized I couldn’t be an engineer.”

Remmers said that “somewhere along the way, something in your basket will challenge you. The more difficult it is, the more rewarding it will be. I took my negatives, and they became positives. Whatever negative, it will be your gift, your silver lining. It’s part of the life process. The more difficult it is, if you approach it the proper way, it will be very rewarding.”

A native of Pennsylvania, Remmers and his family moved to New Jersey when he was in the third grade. He graduated from high school, worked for the telephone company for a year and joined the Navy, which sent him to Gulfport, his first trip to Mississippi. While he was stationed on the coast, he met his wife, Linda, a native of Buckatunna in Wayne County, and they never left the state for good, although there was a brief stop in Louisiana. There was also a stint in Vietnam and a period during which he had volunteered to be trained as a Navy diver in San Diego, Calif. The Remmers married, lived in Jackson, and he enrolled in two or three classes at Hinds Community College. He graduated from Southern Miss as well and was admitted to the second physical therapist class at the University of Mississippi Medical Center. He opened his private practice in Tupelo in 1986.

UPCOMING MUSIC & ARTS, ETC...

ICC dinner theatre 'Nana's Naughty Knickers'

The cast has been selected for this fall's dinner theatre at ICC, which will be Nov. 17-19.

'Nana's Naughty Knickers' by Katherine DiSavino takes place inside Sylvia Charles' rent-controlled apartment, where she has been living since the early '30s. Sylvia, who is Bridget's grandmother, is running an illegal boutique from her apartment, selling hand-made naughty knickers to every senior citizen in the five-borough area.

The cast includes Danicqua Stephens (Sylvia Charles), Celly Armit (Vera Walters), Jordan Wade (Bridget Charles), Chauncey Mullins (Tom O'Grady), JT Washington (Gil Schmidt), Mikayla Clouse (Heather Van Pree), Katie Banes (Clair), Demaris Samuel (UPS Man) and Josh Adair (Voice/Other UPS Man). The backstage director is Jayne Wilson and the technical directors, Maggie Bushway and Kelsey Holder. Jessi Stevenson is the director.

Connect

*with your future today
at Itawamba Community College*

"Connect 2 ICC, enroll in fall classes 2day" will provide an opportunity for students to register for the fall semester at Itawamba Community College from 8 a.m.-6 p.m., July 7, in the Student Support Center at the Itawamba Community College Tupelo Campus.

The session is designed for current and returning students, GED graduates, adult learners and transfer students, according to Michael Holloway, academic advisor.

Admissions, advisers/counselors and financial aid representatives will be available to provide assistance.

Each person who registers will be eligible for several bookstore vouchers, and everyone will receive a t-shirt, Holloway said.

For those who don't participate in the Connect 2 ICC session, there will still be an opportunity to sign up for classes for the 2015 fall semester.

WILL BUNCH, left, assists a student with scheduling classes.

Open registration is scheduled from 8 a.m.-4 p.m., Aug. 13 and 14, on the Fulton Campus in the office of the Registrar/Director of Admission in the Administration Building and on the Tupelo Campus in the Student Support Center.

In addition evening registration times are from 4-7 p.m., Aug. 12-13, in the Student Support Center on the Tupelo Campus.

It is possible to register late for the fall semester classes through Aug. 21 for traditional classes and Aug. 28 for eLearning classes with a late registration fee of $15, but class selection will be limited.

ICC offers academic, career and technical, eLearning (online) and workforce training classes. Locations include the Fulton Campus, Tupelo Campus and Belden Center.

For more information, call the Fulton Campus at (662) 862-8000 or the Tupelo Campus at (662) 620-5000 or email go2icc@iccms.edu.

In the top photo, ICC recruiter/advisor Emily Tucker explains the functions of the mobile lab to students in Amory. The lab can be scheduled for schools and activities within the ICC district. Call (662) 862-8252.

Safety first is top priority for Itawamba

Police available to assist

ICC's Campus Police officers are available 24.7 at the Fulton Campus to provide assistance in case of both major and minor emergencies.

Officers are also on duty at both the Tupelo Campus and the Belden Center, although not round-the-clock.

The full-time officers are certified by the state of Mississippi and are sworn police officers, according to Ricky Brasel, Chief of Campus Police.

The primary objective of the department is to provide a safe and healthy environment that enhances the campus learning experience and complements the College's educational mission, Brasel said.

Not only is the department responsible for law enforcement, security and emergency response, but it is also responsible for providing support services tailored to meet the needs of the college community including, but not limited to, vehicle registration, vehicle assistance, lost and found, surveys of lighting and potential hazards, operation identification, property registration file for resident students and Emergency Medical Response.

The phone numbers are Fulton, (662) 862-8300; Tupelo, (662) 862-5300 and Belden, (662) 407-1570.

CAMPUS POLICE officers pass the emergency light that is located near the W.O. Benjamin Fine Arts Center at the Fulton Campus, only two of the measures that ensure a safe environment for all members of the ICC family.

New ICC policies address gender-based misconduct

Passage last year of the Violence Against Women Reauthorization Act by the U.S. Congress has led to a renewed effort by colleges and universities across the nation to respond to the needs of the campus community regarding such gender-based misconduct as domestic violence, dating violence and stalking.

In order to encourage reporting and response to these crimes, which has been mandated by the Clerly Act and now an obligation under the Campus Sexual Violence Elimination (SaVE) Act, colleges and universities are now required to adopt discipline procedures and prevention strategies, according to Dr. Buddy Collins, vice president of Student Services and Title IX coordinator.

“Itawamba Community College will not tolerate this gender-based misconduct,” Collins said. “These could be criminal offenses and, if so, are subject to criminal charges in Mississippi as well as institutional disciplinary sanctions.”

Collins said the policy specifies that any form of gender-based misconduct that is against another’s will or that substantially interferes with another’s academic efforts, employment or participation in college-sponsored programs or activities is a violation of accepted standards of behavior.

However, reporting is not the sole responsibility of law enforcement personnel. “Every employee of Itawamba Community College is considered a Responsible Employee,” Collins said. “It is their obligation to report any crime reported to them to Campus Police, the Title IX coordinator or director of Student Affairs. as soon as possible.”

Collins said that behaviors warranting criminal charges will be handled according to applicable state law.

The SaVE Act is expected to create transparency, accountability, education and collaboration.

For more information, contact Collins at (662) 862-8271; Ricky Brasel, chief of Campus Police, (662) 862-8020 or Dr. Brad Boggs, director of Student Affairs, (662) 620-5302.

Mass notification system provides alerts

ICC provides a mass notification system called ICC ALERT.

Students, faculty and staff are urged to participate in the free service, according to Dr. Buddy Collins, vice president of Student Services.

“The system enables the College to inform students, faculty and staff of any emergencies or imminent danger situations,” Collins said. “The system is secure and will be used for emergency situations and periodic testing.”

ICC ALERT has been utilized for inclement weather situations when classes and offices were closed due to snow and icing conditions and when storms threatened the area, Collins said.

To sign up to receive emergency messages through ICC ALERT:

1. Log on to the myTribe portal using your name and password.
2. Click ICC ALERT System in the link section on the bottom right.
3. Log in with your same username and password as myTribe to add/update your information.

For assistance with technical issues, contact the TIS Help Desk at (662) 862-8295 or via email at helpdesk@iccms.edu.

GRADUATES wait for their opportunity to receive diplomas during the Associate of Arts commencement ceremony, May 16, at the Davis Event Center at the Fulton Campus. They were among 1,250 individuals who received diplomas at ICC at the conclusion of the spring semester.

Cole, Summers challenge graduates

Itawamba Community College's commencement speakers provided different challenges to the 2015 graduates, but each message echoed that success is available for all.

Dr. David C. Cole, president emeritus and current interim vice president of Economic and Community Services at ICC, urged the 330 Associate of Arts graduates to achieve the American dream during the 65th commencement ceremony at the Davis Event Center at the Fulton Campus at 11 a.m., May 16.

In opening, Cole said, "I am the little boy who hoed, plowed and picked cotton. Education saved me from the life of a sharecropper. This is a special place, a special time, and you are very special people."

Cole said that he and his high school class will celebrate their 50th reunion the third Saturday in July. And, as he eagerly awaits that momentous occasion, he reflected on the achievement of the American dream, which he said is not restricted, but available for anyone with the tenacity and drive to succeed. "In America we have to work for what we get."

"As I look back," Cole noted, "several (in our class) didn't realize their potential. I wondered why some in the middle had more success, why we were better than those who should have been. They were just getting along, not really caring."

Cole said that the person who has the greatest desire, strives and applies the 10,000 hour rule is the one who succeeds. It takes practice to achieve." As it was, he said, in the case of Fleetwood Mac, one of the greatest bands of all time, because it wasn't until album number 24, Rumors, before they ever had breakout success.

"We had to make it," Cole said. "As you learn how to work, as you have the drive and determination to be somebody, you will look back on today. If one person can achieve the American dream, anyone can. It takes sweat, heart and desire. Love people. Use things. Never confuse the two."

Cole served as ICC's fourth president from January 1993 until his retirement, June 30, 2013, and since that time he was interim president at Holmes Community College last summer. On May 3, he returned to ICC as interim vice president of Economic and Community Services.

Dr. Amanda Pitts Summers of Mantachie, who is a clinical pharmacist for North Mississippi Medical Center's Outpatient Infusion department and ICC's 2014 Alumnus of the Year, provided the address for the 3 p.m. ceremony during which 220 graduates received Associate of Applied Science degrees and certificates.

"Graduation is not the end, it's the beginning," Summers said. "It's your beginning. You are in charge of where you go and how you get there."

Summers told her audience that she wished she had time to visit with each and learn all of their stories. "Some of you started after high school, and some after the workforce. Some of you knew exactly what you wanted to do, and some of you needed some guidance. You worked hard, sacrificed and were dedicated."

She said that although the graduates might be a bit apprehensive about the next step, their families would be there to provide the same support as they had to help them achieve this significant milestone in their lives.

"Maybe you know or don't know what the next step is, but you are more prepared today. Now that you are a graduate, there is a high expectation for you," Summers said. "We want you to do us proud. You get only one life. Be content and enjoy that life."

Jumpstart program offers three options for better future

Individuals who desire a pathway to a better future can take advantage of ICC’s new Jumpstart program offered at the Belden Center.

The initiative connects Workforce Investment Act counselors to the Adult Basic Education program to enable participants to acquire job readiness skills as well as work toward the high school completion credential.

Through the services of the Skills Center, the Jumpstart program provides assistance with earning the high school equivalency certificate; refreshing academic, technology and other necessary skills for employment; creating a resume and improving job interview skills; connecting with counselors to determine a career path; and qualifying for college tuition assistance.

Those who enroll in the five-week program basically have three options, according to Julia Houston, ABE/GED/ESL program director.

The Counseling to Career pathway, which serves students age 21 and under who may or may not have a high school credential, offers an opportunity for work experience upon completion of the Jumpstart program. Participants utilize the schedule for education, work-readiness and necessary skills activities to enter the workforce, college or military. C2C pathway participants also may earn $100 upon passing the GED during their five-week term.

The ABE plus is another pathway for those who are 22 and older to build their education, work-readiness and necessary skills to improve their employment opportunities and earn financial assistance to attend college.

The third pathway through the Skills Center Jumpstart program is On-The-Job training. It is designed to utilize the Jumpstart schedule to prepare participants to enter the workforce with an additional opportunity to obtain OJT funds upon successful completion of required courses and activities.

The Jumpstart program operates on a continuous five-week schedule with participants attending the activities that are part of the activities they are pursuing, Houston said. WIOA counselors provide individual assistance in choosing the pathway that is the best fit.

Houston said that all components of the Jumpstart program are designed to promote and develop behaviors that will benefit participants, both in education and work environments. Respect for the institution, the community and everyone involved in the program is one of the most important components emphasized throughout the program.

Classes meet weekdays from 8 a.m.-4:30 p.m. at the Belden Center, but are also offered on a rotating basis at the WIN Job Centers in Amory, Houston and Pontotoc. New students begin their first day of the program every Monday morning at the Belden Center after completing the preregistration process the Monday or Tuesday of the prior week. Houston said that one of the most important parts of the preregistration process is the counseling provided before or after participants are assessed regarding skills levels and areas which need improvement. “The individual counseling that participants receive each week is truly the most significant component of the program,” Houston said.

The first item on the schedule each day for all students and staff is the morning motivation, which Houston said is a time to provide both encouragement as well as necessary announcements.

Students receive incentives throughout the five-week program to acknowledge their successes and persistence as well as to encourage them to complete. On their last day of the program, participants present a culmination of their achievements to the other students and members of the staff. Written and oral presentations as well as visual media and other projects are components of the final presentation.

“We are the builders of your skills,” Houston told the participants recently. “If you want something in your life you’ve never had, you have to do something you’ve never done.”

LEARNING can be fun!

SHERRI DAVIS-GARNER, owner of Styling Your Life and Styling Your Life Solutions and the author of Choose to Stay or Choose to Go, unwritten rules for career advancement, emphasized the importance of having a mentor for students during the ICC Boot Camp during Indian Week activities at the Tupelo Campus. In discussing the difference between a sponsor and a mentor, she said that "a mentor may be a person you connect with throughout your life. This person helps you think objectively, process emotions and helps you to identify and develop the skills to be successful." Davis-Garner also provided interviewing tips, including preparation and acceptable questions to ask.

Terry Bland new ICC director of Student Aid

Mooreville native Terry Bland is Itawamba Community College's new director of Student Aid.

He began working in the financial aid industry in 1993 with Bancorp-South living in Mississippi, Tennessee and Alabama, establishing student loan offices for BancorpSouth and assisting bank customers with financing their college educations. His previous experience also includes regional account executive and subsequently assistant vice president over national lender development for the Missouri Higher Education Loan Authority, financial aid auditor for ICC and director of Financial Aid for Northwest Mississippi Community College.

A graduate of Mooreville High School, he earned the bachelor's degree from Union University and is currently working toward the master's degree from Walden University.

He has served as treasurer for the Mississippi Association of Student Financial Aid Administrators and has been chair of the audit and finance committee for multiple terms since then.

Bland replaces Bob Walker, who retired last week after more than 17 years as director of Student Aid at ICC.

ICC Student Aid offices are located in the Student Services buildings on both the Fulton and Tupelo campuses.

ICC offers sports opportunities

Itawamba Community College not only excels academically, but it is also great in the athletics arena as well.

The College offers many opportunities for students to participate in sports and sports-related activities.

ICC's student-athletes participate in 10 intercollegiate sports including baseball, men's and women's basketball, football, golf, men's and women's soccer, softball, men's and women's tennis as well as a coed cheerleading squad.

A variety of intramural sports activities fill the calendar each semester during the late afternoon and evening hours. Included are such sports as flag football, basketball, volleyball and softball. The voluntary program is open to all students except varsity athletes who are certified in the intramural sport that is offered. Intramurals are easy and a lot of fun...and you don't have to be athletic to participate! Students should watch their ICC emails for details regarding intramural activities, dates, times and locations.

There are also recreational facilities which are available to students during the academic year including open gym, tennis, outdoor basketball and volleyball courts.

Both students and faculty can now take advantage of equipment and classes provided as a result of a Blue Cross & Blue Shield Foundation grant for WellFIT 365. Spin bikes are now available in ICC's Fulton Campus Fitness Center, and nutrition counseling and seminars are provided free of charge for a healthier faculty, staff and students.

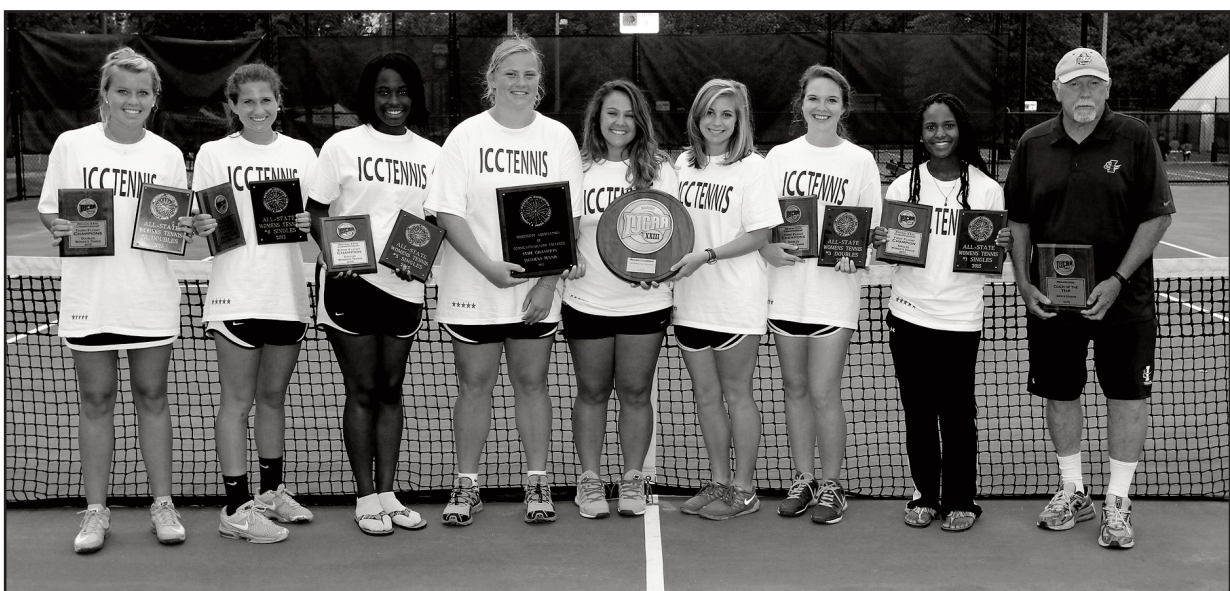

Fitness Centers are located on both the Fulton and Tupelo campuses and are open to students and faculty. The Fulton Campus center, which is adjacent to the Davis Event Center, is open during the summer from 7 a.m.-4:30 p.m. weekdays, and memberships for non-faculty and non-students are available for a fee. During the school year, the hours are 7 a.m.-9 p.m., weekdays. The Tupelo Campus center, which is in the B Building, is open from 10 a.m.-1 p.m., Tuesdays and Thursdays. More information on the Fulton Campus center is available at (662) 862-8296.

ICC offers a multitude of options for faculty, staff and students to get fit and stay fit. It's up to us to participate!

WellFIT 365 events open to ICC students, faculty Planning for fall underway

Students, faculty and staff members receive periodic updates on events and activities which are part of the WellFIT 365 initiative, that has been made possible by a $355,048 Blue Cross & Blue Shield Foundation grant.

According to grant director Dr. Krista Woods, "The WellFIT 365 events/activities are open to all of ICC, including students."

The grant has provided new cardiac equipment including spin bikes, a nine-week health and nutrition program each semester and a youth summer health and wellness camp.

Woods said that she plans to "offer special seminars, etc. designed just for students in the future, but they are welcome to participate in all current activities."

Plans for the fall include free fitness assessments including measurements of Body Mass Index, Flexibility, Cardiorespiratory Endurance and Body Composition Analysis. All fitness assessments will be free of charge, but will require advance registration.

In addition, a FitClub Fitness Challenge will be part of the fall schedule. Participants will be able to earn prizes by completing a predetermined number of workouts during the challenge period.

A nutrition seminar series this fall wil include such topics as "Re-think Your Drink," "Sugar Shockers" and "Fuel Up - Snacks to Fuel the Body."

In addition, free nutrition counseling and free wellness and fitness counseling sessions are available.

Chills, Fernandez, Millender named NJCAA All-American

Three ICC athletes were named All-American by the National Junior College Athletic Association during 2014-15. They include Jayla Chills of Ripley, second team; Anthony Fernandez of New Albany and Jeb Millender of Pontotoc, second team.

Chills

Chills, a sophomore guard, averaged 19.7 points, 4.6 rebounds and three assists per game to help lead the Lady Indians (23-5) to their second NJCAA Region 23 championship and national tournament appearance in the past three seasons.

Millender

Millender, a punter, had the second-best average in the nation with 41.5 yards on 55 punts with the nation's second-best 25 kicks downed inside the 20-yard line.

Griffin wins No. 4 singles championship

Anna-Claire Griffin of Iuka finished her career as a Lady Indian by winning the No. 4 singles consolation championship at the NJCAA Women's Division 1 National Tennis Tournament in Tucson, Ariz.

The road to the championship wasn't easy for her as she upset No. 7 seed Claudia Maka in the opening round of the consolation bracket before beating Marina Schmitz of NJCAA tennis power Harford Community College.

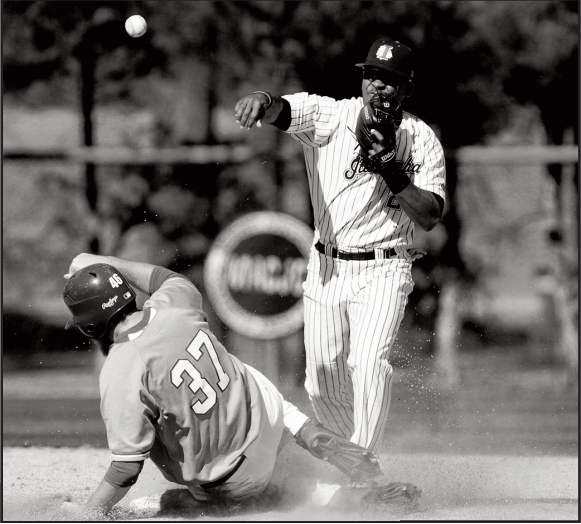

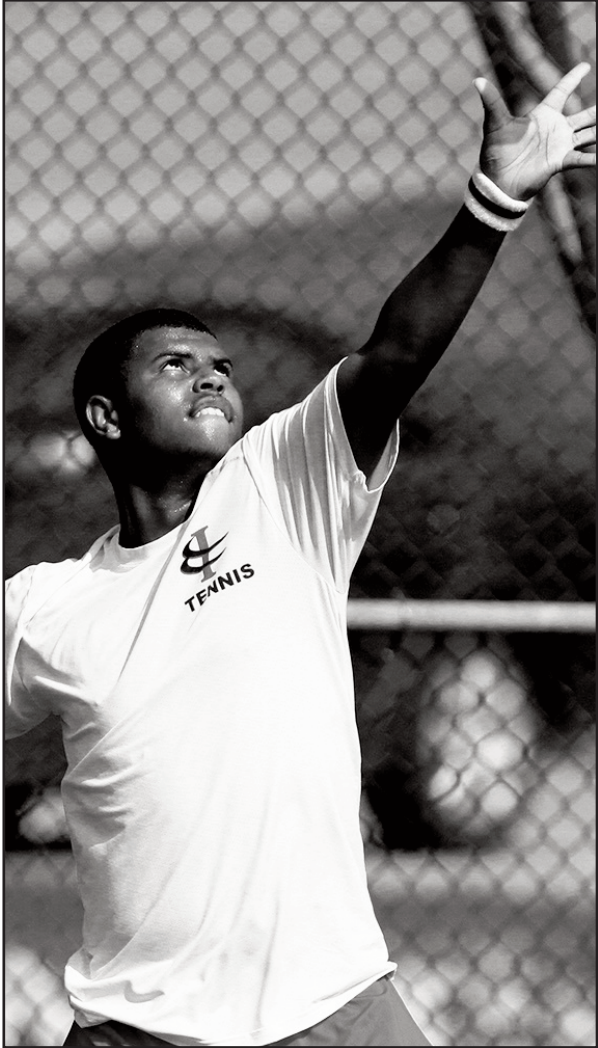

Griffin

Fernandez

Fernandez, a striker, scored 17 goals, 37 points and picked up eight assists during his sophomore campaign that helped lead the Indians to a 13-4 record and to host their first-ever playoff game. One of his plays was featured in the top 10 on Sports Center.
